Halo goes live with RFPs from Baxter

Webinar: Wednesday, Jan. 22 at 2pm EST/ 1pm CST

Halo is an online marketplace that connects academic scientists with industry-sponsored research. Today, Halo is excited to launch its first set of industry RFPs for NACRO members and your faculty. Flagship sponsor Baxter, a Fortune 500 medical device company, is seeking multiple academic collaborations with water researchers, and will be providing $150,000 to $300,000 in funding per project. NACRO members can sign up and share RFPs directly with faculty. View RFPs >>

Halo will also be hosting a live, interactive webinar next week with Baxter R&D Director Matt Muller. Spots are limited to encourage active discussion. Faculty are encouraged to attend as well. Register now >>

The Conference Programming Committee needs your feedback

One of the greatest benefits from attending our annual NACRO Conference is the opportunity to network with others in similar roles through the Affinity Group sessions. The Conference Programming Committee wants your feedback on how to make these sessions more valuable. Please take five minutes to answer four questions about how we can make your conference experience even better than the last. Take survey >>

Nominate a fellow NACRO member to our next Board of Directors

NACRO makes the incredible impact it does only with the help of dedicated volunteers. Each year the NACRO Board of Directors expresses gratitude to our outgoing members and welcomes new ones. We are now accepting nominations in the following roles:

- Co-Vice Presidents (2 openings)
- Benchmarking Committee (Chair Elect)
- Conference Programming (Chair Elect)
- Marketing and Communications Committee (Chair Elect)
- Professional Development (Chair Elect)
- Members and Alliances (Chair Elect)
- Member at Large (one-year term)

Eligible candidates must be active NACRO members for at least one year and preferably served on the committee they would be leading (more details on process).
